Cloudpath WiFi Service

Cloudpath is a private WiFi network which allows you to connect your wireless devices in your room so they are part of a personal network which only you have access.

Some examples of how we think this will improve your Wi-Fi experience are:
- printing to your personal wireless printer in your room while in the College library.
- connect your wireless games console to the Internet rather than having to use an Ethernet cable.
- connecting a SmartTV or Amazon Echo so only you can control it.

Cloudpath creates a unique wireless password, which is linked to you, and will follow you anywhere St John's Wi-Fi is installed

Note: This network is linked to you, via your unique Wi-Fi password, and you alone are responsible for any network activity.

As such you must NOT share your Wi-Fi password with anyone else

Also please note Cloudpath is provided by the same wireless infrastructure within college buildings. There is no advantage to using Cloudpath rather than Eduroam.

Cloudpath is a college based system for accessing your personal wireless devices as if you were at home. If you do not have any other devices then there is no advantage over using it or Eduroam.

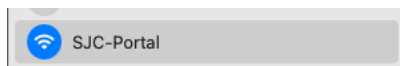

How to get your own CloudPath WiFi login -

Step 1:
